

RANA IBRAHIM

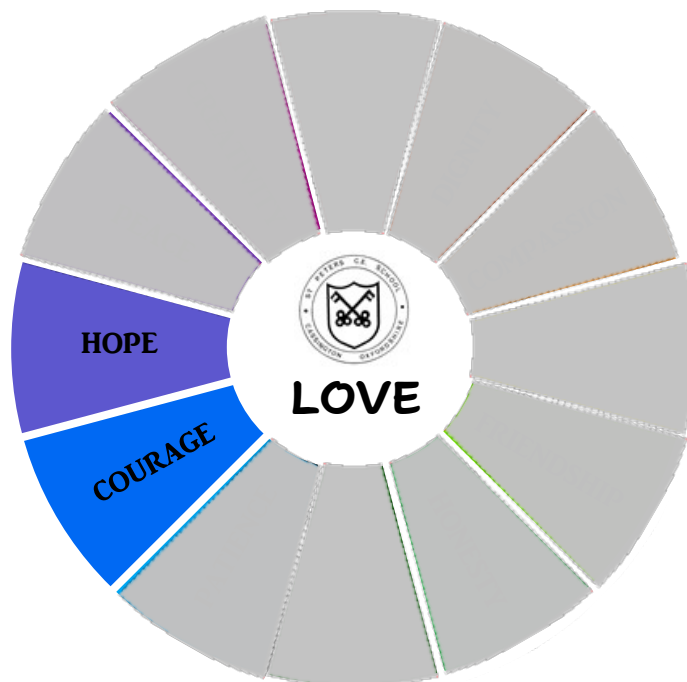

Rana came to England to build a new life after fleeing the war in Iraq. She left her family and belongings behind and couldn't speak any English. Rana uses art, and especially collages, to tell stories and she wants art to be an international language.

COURAGE

She has amazing courage to live through a war and to set-off for another country where she couldn't speak their language and didn't know anybody.

She has lots of courage to meet new people.

HOPE

She has always had hope for her new life in England and hope for what she can achieve.

She hopes for the best for other people and helps them through art so they can tell their stories.
