

I have chosen to create a story with generosity as the value.

The big bag of sweets

One day a little boy called Alfie was eating a small bag of chocolate buttons. They weren't his favorite chocolates but he enjoyed them. Alfie's mum asked him to share them equally with his little sister Nancy. Alfie did not want to share and gave Nancy one button.

A little while later Alfie and Nancy's mum went out to the shops with Nancy. When they came back Nancy had a big bag of Alfie's favourite sweets. Alfie's eye lit up.. He really wanted some of Nancy's sweets. He asked Nancy to share the sweets equally. But because Alfie only gave one chocolate to her earlier she only gave one sweet to him.

When he complained to his mum she said "Alfie that is fair because you only given one to Nancy, and you must be equal"

The moral of the story is

"You must share and be equal"
